SUMMARY

I'm Ayman Khalidi, a passionate full stack developer with over 5 years of experience in building scalable and efficient web applications. My journey in coding began when I was just 16 years old, and since then, I've been dedicated to continuously learning and improving my skills. With a strong foundation in HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, I've expanded my expertise to include backend development with languages like Python and C#. I've worked on numerous projects, from simple web pages to complex web applications, and have a keen eye for design and user experience. Throughout my career, I've had the opportunity to work with various technologies and frameworks, including Bootstrap, React, and Django. I'm always looking to stay up-to-date with the latest trends and best practices in the industry, and I'm excited to take on new challenges and projects.
